GATEWAY SCHOOL

Middle School Science

Eda is learning about chemical reactions and mixing vinegar and baking soda.

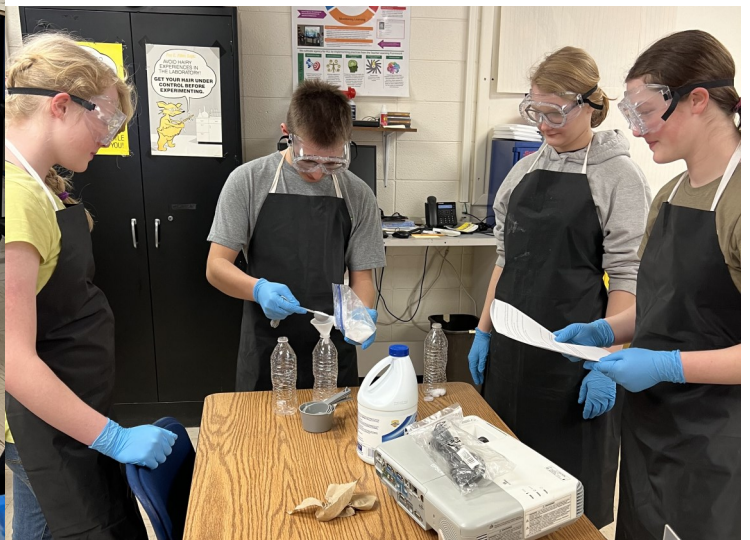

Delanie and Charlie are learning about weathering and erosion by making their own land and spraying water to create erosion in their sand.

Secondary

High School Science

Here the students are learning about mixing different amounts of bleach and salt to create different chemical reactions and liquid colors.

Seasonal OWL Instructor Intern

Where are you from: I was raised in Grand Junction but have spent the last couple of months living in Rexburg, Idaho for college at BYU.

Fun Fact: I love to play sports! Some of my favorites are Tennis, Lacrosse, Pickleball, Ultimate Frisbee, Spikeball, Volleyball and Basketball.

Why Gateway: Currently I am majoring in Recreational Therapy. I want to use this degree to help kids and teens get outside and recognize how amazing this world is that we live in and this is perfect practice! The OWL program is something that I have heard nothing but good reviews about. I never got to come up when I was in middle school but am really grateful I get to be here now!
